SQUARE AND COMPASS HALL OPENS

Members of Allied Organizations Enjoy First Entertainment and Dance Held in New Assembly Hall. Carnival to Be Held June 18th.

The opening of the new hall in connection with the home of the Square and Compass club, made from the remodeled Flint barn, took place on Thursday evening following the regular club meeting. A large gathering of club members and their wives and members of the Thimble club were present.

Remarks were made by Edmund E. Hammond, president of the club, and by Mrs. Harry Wadman, president of the Thimble club. An entertainment program was presented arranged by Henry Todd, chairman, William Middleley, Charles T. Gilliard, Mrs. Dana W. Clark, Mrs. E. Burke Thornton and Mrs. Harry Chadwick.

The program included: a solo by George Knipe; a specialty toe dance by Miss Helen Kimball; readings by Miss Mabel Marshall; a stunt solo by Roscoe Brannan; toe dance by Miss Frances McTernan; solos by Mrs. Henry Simmes; mandolin and ukulele duet by Miss Emma Briggs and Joseph Conner; specialty duo dance by Misses Helen Kimball and Frances McTernan; and witty and inspiring remarks by Rev. Alfred C. Church.

Refreshments were served, six charming examples of Andover pulchritude acting as waitresses. They afterwards entered a miniature beauty contest and in the general applause with which it was received it was difficult to tell who received the best hand. The palm was finally awarded to Dr. Malcolm B. McTernan. Other entrants were Harry Chadwick, Osborne Sutton, Fred W. Gilliard, Ralph Bailey and Philip Leslie.

The very successful evening closed with dancing, music being furnished by Lundgren's orchestra.

Great credit is due to the committee of arrangements especially to its chairman, Henry Todd who worked untiringly to arrange for the opening festivities.

The hall which will seat one hundred and fifty comfortably has recently been finished with a hardwood floor, a moveable stage, beautiful draperies made by members of the Thimble club, a disappearing stairway leading to the attic which will be used for a store room and other modern conveniences. The stage has been wired for moving pictures and the hall is heated by a one-pipe furnace in the basement.

Between the hall and the main clubhouse a room has been fitted out for use as a check room or serving room. A permanent counter has been built in the room joined by a pantry.

The hall which will be a fine asset to the club will be used for meetings, card parties, dances and entertainments.

The general work was done by the Hardy Construction company. The plumbing was done by the W. H. Welch company and the electrical work was done by C. A. Hill.

FORDS AND CAR COLLIDE

Two Automobiles and Street Car in Accident at Corner of Main Street and Pumphard Ave. No Serious Injuries

Three persons from Rhode Island were injured on Monday evening when the automobile in which they were riding was caught between another machine and an electric car near the corner of Main street and Pumphard avenue. The injured persons were taken to the Lawrence General Hospital. Thomas Colavetto and O. Leonard Colavetto, 188 Sisson street, Providence, R. I., and Edna Belanger of Graystone, R. I., were discharged after treatment and Miss Alberta Stone of 1321 Charleston avenue, Providence, R. I., who sustained injuries to her collarbone and lacerations of the scalp left the hospital on Tuesday, although against the advice of physicians.

According to the story of Emile Stone, 1401 Chalkstone avenue, Providence, R. I., the driver of the car, he was proceeding south along Main street when an automobile ahead of him, which was parked at the curb, drew out into the street just as a street car approached going north. His automobile was caught between the other machine and the electric car and turned over.

The driver of the other machine was Harice McNair of 22 Hudson street, Cambridge and with him was Miss Laura Green and Lawrence L. Green of 72 Kendall street, Cambridge. The occupants of this car were uninjured.

Blunt, Salem Street, by June 9, and may be purchased at Alumnae Headquarters after ten o'clock on Monday, June 13.

Following the luncheon the ceremony of receiving the graduating class into the Association will take place, and greetings will be given from reunion classes. The annual meeting of the Alumnae association will be held in Abbot hall at 1:30.

Gallery seats will be reserved for alumnae at the graduating exercises in the South church on Tuesday, but it seems only fair that the tickets for these should be kept for the out-of-town guests.

The Scarlet Fever Situation in Andover

According to Franklin H. Stacey of the Board of Health, the rumor that the public schools are to close because of the prevalence of scarlet fever is utterly without foundation.

Although there have been sixteen new cases since the nineteenth of May, there have not been more than two cases in any one school-room, and some of this number are under school age.

It is thought by the authorities that the children are safe in school where they are daily watched by nurses and physicians, rather than when mingling promiscuously without supervision.

Many of the cases have been traced to Lawrence and careful parents will consider the risk of exposing their children to contagion in electric cars, moving picture houses or other large gatherings of people.

Free Church Picnic Postponed

In accordance with the recommendation of the Board of Health the Free Church picnic has been indefinitely postponed owing to the prevalence of scarlet fever in town.

As soon as conditions are more favorable, the picnic will be held and those who are interested should watch the newspapers for further notices.

Picnic for St. Catherine's Guild Postponed

The picnic planned by the Girls' Friendly society of Christ church for the members of St. Catherine's guild and which was to have been held tomorrow afternoon has been indefinitely postponed.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCES

ABBOT FIELD DAY

Senior-Mid Team Wins in Annual Contest. Several Records Broken. Cups Presented at Evening Gathering

Because of the rainy days in May, there could be very little practice for spring sports, and poor playing on Field Day might have been excusable. In spite of the handicap provided by the weather, however, the participants did extremely well, and even broke several Abbot records.

The grounds made a lovely background for the class colors and the many events went off very smoothly. Great credit is due to Lucy Sanborn '27, President of the Abbot Athletic Association, and to her various committees.

Beatrice Lane '28, broke the record for the running broad jump held by Elinor Mahoney; Marian Smith broke Ruth Copeland's discus throw; Priscilla Page broke the javelin record held by Marian Smith — and Isabel Bartlett broke Evelyn Glidden's 50-yard dash record.

In the evening Lucy Sanborn presided over an enthusiastic gathering, and Miss Bailey presented the silver archery cup to the Class of 1927 and the tennis cup to 1928, through their presidents, Sydna White '27 and Janet Cunningham '28. Harriet Nash '27, school song leader, led songs to Miss Bailey, Miss Kelsey and Miss Carpenter, and Sylvia Miller '27 led songs to the heads of sports, who were all called upon for speeches.

MEMORIAL OBSERVANCES

On Fame's eternal camping-ground,
Their silent tents are spread,
And Glory guards with solemn round
The bivouac of the dead.

It is because soldiers with their terrible deeds have saved this nation, that we give to them special honors every Memorial Day. The method by which soldiers undertake to save a nation is by the destruction of its foes. Soldiers are our last resort; when no other means avail for our safety, when moral suasion is ineffective, when every possible overture of peace is rejected and the angry foe equipped with every death-dealing implement threatens to take away our place and nation, then we turn to our strong young men with our ultimate and desperate appeal. "Save us, even though it stains every hand with blood, and sears every heart with an indelible scar of savagery." Then we equip them with the most effective means of destruction and say,

Strike for your altars and your fires,
Strike for the green graves of your sires,
God and your native land.

Such a moment of desperation came to our nation at the time of our great Civil War when the Grand Army of the Republic had its birth, more than two generations ago. At the battle of Gettysburg when the resolute and victorious soldiers of General Robert E. Lee had driven the soldiers of our nation out from the western portion of Virginia, and then swept on further north in Pennsylvania, a great tidal wave of seventy thousand armed men, then the very life of our nation was threatened at our capitol city. It was clear

A. W. MELLON,
Secretary of the Treasury,
Washington, May 31, 1927.

enough then to every thinking mind, that the only way to save our nation was by destroying the enemy. It was an awful day for Lincoln who had registered his vow in heaven that he would not permit this nation to be destroyed so long as soldiers could be found to fight in its protection.

Those three hot and horrible days of July, 1863, held the most frightful menace to our nation's life that ever hung over us; but the Union soldiers saved us. Under the cautious and concentrated leadership of General Meade our Union soldiers with the desperation of men who were fighting with their backs to the wall, resisted the awful onslaught of Pickett's charge, and rendered such a devastating fire of shot and shell over the broad battlefield of Gettysburg, that twenty thousand of the invading foe were felled in death. The soldiers' mission to save the nation by destroying the foe was fully vindicated on that field, and a grateful people will ever cherish the valiant deeds of our Grand Army of the Republic.

Likewise also for our newer and younger American Legion there was a similar great menace in Europe where the essential function of a soldier to destroy the foe was implored and was given.

When at the second battle of the Marne in the month of May nine years ago, a similar but immensely more prodigious attack was made by the hordes of Germany menacing the very life of the nation of France, and by inference also the life of Great Britain and the life of our great American democracy, then we had recourse to our strong young men and appealed to them to exercise the terrible function of a soldier.

They had been taught all gentle courtesies, they had been reared as gentlemen, they had been schooled in all the arts of helpfulness for fellowmen; but in the presence of this overwhelming avalanche of armed men from Germany, we commissioned them to be the implacable destroyers of the foe. They were. They left their name for warlike fury branded forever upon the history of Europe. The gratitude also of France, of all Europe and of America will forever flow like refreshing streams to keep green the memory of those young men who took upon themselves the awful duty of the soldier.

But our American soldiers have always been more than soldiers. They love peace better than war. They seek to save and not to destroy. They know and we all know that the foes as by making friends.

The martial victories that have been achieved by America fill a page of glory that we need not be ashamed to compare with that of any other nation in history; nevertheless, if our chief glory has been only an unbroken series of successful banishments of our foes, it would be a sad and hollow glory.

We rejoice to believe that in the American soldier there is the profound and eager ambition to make America the friend and helper of all the nations of the earth; that we may have, between the two great oceans, a land that shall be the producer of more benefactions to the human race than any other nation upon which the sun shines.

It is our good fortune to have a land so large in extent of latitude and longitude that it can produce the varieties of crops and products more than any other nation. Add to these the legacy of our mines, in coal and iron and gold and silver and petroleum and a multitude of other minerals, and you have a basis for industry that will minister to the needs of humanity in greater abundance than any of the nations of the world.

So great an opulence conferred upon us by the providence of God is not without its grave dangers; indeed America has been freely charged by the people of rival nations with greediness and dollar-blindness and all kinds of materialism; but there are enough earnest and industrious and unselfish people in our land to save this nation from these perils.

The business of saving this nation is being done by millions of honest toilers who are producing their best handiwork in the most effective way, so that American-made products fit well into the needs of the people all over this world. They are saving this nation through their inventive and mechanical genius provides labor-saving machines and methods so that a greater abundance of this world's comforts may be provided to all the people of the world. They are saving this nation when they provide for the men, women and children of our land a greater assortment of life's privileges than can be found in any other nation.

But the production of foods and raiment and houses and all the material conveniences of life is not the chief method of saving this nation. There is another and a more vital service to be rendered.

It is the building of the higher qualities of manhood.

Our fathers came to these shores from conditions of servitude and suppression so formidably that they proceeded to form a government of the people, for the people and by the people, that might guarantee a greater freedom than any people had ever known. Their success has been the surprise of the whole world.

But their high idealism has been for all their descendants a legacy of supreme value. We are commissioned by it to save this nation by the building of the higher qualities of manhood.

In all of our public schools, this is the ever-present ideal; in our churches everywhere the finer ethics, the purer faiths, the nobler altruisms are inculcated; in our homes there are noble fathers and mothers who are saving this nation by instilling into the hearts of the boys and girls the keenest sensibilities of honor and self-respect.

These are our ideals. Many cases of failure are constantly being reported, and our newspapers are daily advertising to the world an enormous quantity of crimes emanating from our American homes, and schools, and churches; but these same papers are daily showing by their candor, their courage, their sincerity, an ideal journalism that is in many respects, unmatched in any other nation.

There are uncounted hosts of common people who are engaged in the business of saving this nation whose names seldom appear on the pages of any newspaper.

When many of our sons and daughters of wealth and privilege go upon their European journeys, their extravaganzas, their carousals, and their insouciant and disgust the peoples of Europe; but there are many others who are saving the reputation of this nation by a courteous and generous demeanor.

When in the course of human events there lights upon the streets of Paris a Charles Lindbergh out of one of our common American boys, who drinks no alcoholic liquors, smokes no tobacco, cares for no nocturnal carousals, simple earnest and virile, all France bursts forth in unbounded adulation. They tell us that this dear boy has done more to save America in the hearts of the nation of France than all the diplomacy of the past five years.

Charles Lindbergh has indeed a genius for flying, and we are proud of his achievement in spanning for the first time in one sweep of his wings the vast abyss of three thousand miles of ocean; but there is another achievement of his manhood that thrills us Americans; it is his soul's ability to fly above the allurements of sensuality, the passions and bickerings of professional strife, the international resentments, and to keep his balance, a fine manly and humble citizen of a great republic.

Such are the men that save this nation.

Memorial Sunday Afternoon
Services in memory of Andover men who died at sea in the service of their country were held Sunday afternoon by the Sons of Union Veterans, assisted by other patriotic organizations at Stevens' bridge.

Rev. C. Norman Bartlett led in prayer and remarks were made by Rev. Charles A. Branton. There was also singing by the school children. A large wreath was sent to the Shawshen river by Commander Clukey, after which other floral tributes were added by representatives of the patriotic organizations. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Wesley Nicholson.

Troops 6, 7 and 8, of the Boy Scouts took part in the procession and made a fine appearance.

Memorial Day
Gorgeous sunshine and a comfortable temperature with foliage and grass at their best after weeks of rain, made ideal conditions for one of the finest Memorial day processions ever held in Andover. The long route of march was lined with hundreds of automobiles and hundreds more followed on foot, swelling the concourse about Memorial tower and at the South church cemetery.

The day's exercises commenced at eight o'clock when the tablets at Memorial hall were decorated by representatives of the G. A. R., and the American Legion. Dr. F. A. Wilson offered prayer at the G. A. R. services, and Dr. E. Victor Bigelow at the Legion services.

The audience at the Town hall was small and the exercises were necessarily somewhat abbreviated owing to the absence of the school children who did not, as usual, attend in body, owing to the numerous cases of scarlet fever in town. Selections by the band were substituted for the songs of the school children and the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by a high school scholar was omitted.

During the trooping of the colors "The Star Spangled Banner" was played by McDonnell's Military band. Prayer was offered by Rev. Newman Matthews and the Orders of the Day were read by Jesse Billington, acting adjutant of the G. A. R. Remarks were made by Commander Clukey and after "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue" by the band, Clara O'Connell recited Joyce Kilmer's, "Rouge Bouquet".

The orator of the day was Principal Stacy Southworth of Thayer Academy, Braintree, himself the son of a Civil War veteran, who had known the perils of Gettysburg, Cemetery Ridge, Jamestown, and Pickett's charge. Mr. Southworth's ideal for the purpose of Memorial day is not to glorify the dead, but rather to inspire and enlighten the living. He took as his theme the phrase from the orders of General Logan: "Let no vandalism of avarice or neglect, no ravages of time, testify to the present or to the coming generations that we have forgotten as a people the cost of a free and undivided Republic." He spoke of the imperishable debt of gratitude which every American citizen owes to Abraham Lincoln and those who stood behind him, as well as to the veterans of the World War who were champions of the rights of mankind and fought for a nation which sought no conquest and no indemnities.

He concluded by quoting from Rudyard Kipling's "Children's Song":

Land of our Birth, we pledge to thee,
Our love and toil in the years to be;

When we are grown and take our place,
As men and women with our race.

Father in Heaven who lovest all,
Oh help thy children when they call;
That they may build from age to age,
An undivided heritage.

Teach us to rule ourselves alone,
Controlled and cleanly night and day;
That we may bring, if need arise,
No maimed or worthless sacrifice.

Land of our Birth, our faith, our pride,
For whose dear sake our fathers died;
Oh Motherland, we pledge to thee,
Head, heart, and hand through the years to be!

The exercises closed with the singing of "America" and a prayer by Father Charles A. Branton, O. S. A.

The ceremonies were presided over by Commander Ralph Berry, of the American Legion. Seated on the platform were Commander Henry Clukey, John Cummings, and John B. A. Russell of the General William F. Bartlett Post, No. 99, G. A. R.; Jesse F. Billington and Floyd Eastman of the S. of U. V.; Commander Ralph Berry, of Post, No. 8, American Legion; Dr. F. A. Wilson, Dr. E. Victor Bigelow, Rev. Newman Matthews, Rev. C. Norman Bartlett; Rev. Charles A. Branton; Principal Stacy Southworth of Thayer academy, the orator of the day; Selectmen Frank H. Hardy, Charles A. Bowman, Andrew McTernan and Town Clerk and Treasurer George A. Higgins.

During the exercises in the Town hall Commander Henry Clukey visited Commander James Saunders who is ill at his home on Chestnut street and members of the band, who accompanied him, played a serenade.

At half past nine the various units formed in line and with band and drum and bugle corps playing and the colors of the Nation and of Commonwealthes flying, the members of Andover's patriotic organizations represented by four generations—the Grand Army of the Republic, the Sons of Union Veterans, the veterans of the World War with their allied auxiliaries, and the Boy Scouts—marched up to the Memorial tower where brief exercises were held.

The procession was greeted as it approached the old training field, by the notes of the carillon ringing out from the tower. Headmaster Alfred E. Stearns of Phillips' academy voiced the appreciation of the school that its men, who had made the supreme sacrifice for their country, should be remembered in so fitting a manner. He said that it was by tasting something of suffering and sacrifice that we were made a part of the nation, and in such common suffering and sacrifice to one cause we most fully realized our citizenship. Continued service is necessary that this free nation may endure. Freedom rests on service and sacrifice. License is not liberty, and only by obeying the laws, answering the call of duty, and assuming responsibilities can the ideals be realized for which the men died who, on Memorial day, are honored.

A wreath was placed on the pedestal at the foot of the tower by Chaplain Fred E. Cheever of the American Legion, a volley was fired, and "taps" were sounded.

The column then resumed its march down School street to the South church. At Abbot academy the entire school was assembled carrying the Stars and Stripes and standing at attention to do honor to the veterans.

It is worthy of comment that Commander Henry Clukey, who is over eighty years of age, covered the entire distance of nearly two miles on foot!

Graves in the South church, Christ church, and St. Augustine's cemeteries were decorated, a volley was fired and "taps" were sounded.

The usual exercises were then held at Spring Grove. Dr. F. A. Wilson opened the services with prayer, which was followed by selection by the band and recitations by Ethel Sorrie and Allen Chadwick. A quartet composed of Mrs. Alfred Harris, Knipino, Minnie Valentine, alto, George Knipino, tenor, and Alex Black, bass, rendered two selections. Flowers were placed on the Soldiers' monument by members of the Women's Relief Corps. Then followed another selection by the band, the salute to the flag and "taps".

At the West Parish cemetery the order of service was as follows: Selection by the band; prayer, Rev. Newman Matthews; selection by the quartet; recitation, Allen Chadwick; selection by the quartet; patriotic address by Rev. C. Norman Bartlett; salute to the flag; salute by the Legion firing squad, and "taps".

When the ceremonies of the day were concluded dinner was served in the vestry of the Baptist church by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Sons of Union Veterans.

TO HENRY CLUKEY
He marched alone, though many were in line,
That day they set apart for soldier dead,
To keep alive in children's memories
The sacrifices which so honorably were made.

Of zealous patriots, of maids and men,
Four years they fought; some lived while others died
The Union was preserved through sacrifice,
Those soldier boys are heroes defied.

Now only four are left, and only one
Was able to march the weary way,
The spirit was the same unflinching hope
That urged him on that far off other day.

With pride they watched his steps, though tear-filled eyes,
(The days pass on too soon when we are old)
But though the feet step slower, still it seems
The fire of patriotism never more grows cold.

Phillips Archaeology Notes

Warren K. Moorehead went to East St. Louis, Illinois, ten days ago and inspected the exploration of a large Indian mound. The work is under the direction of Jay L. B. Taylor, a former Andover student, who is now an engineer. Mr. Taylor served a number of years in the forestry service and wrote a book on the duties of forest rangers which Appleton & Company published. It passed through two or three editions. He also issued a work on astronomy and another on physics.

Up to the present time Mr. Taylor's party has uncovered about seventy skeletons of prehistoric mound builders.

Mr. Moorehead was asked to attend the commencement exercises at Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, where he received the degree of Doctor of Science.

The Illinois expedition is being financed by the University of Illinois, whose president, Dr. David Kinley, is a Phillips graduate. The archaeology department has been exceedingly busy; Dr. Kidder acting as chairman of the National Research Council, Washington, and Mr. Moorehead and Mr. Towle being on duty in Georgia in active field service most of the winter. Thrift

If your pay is small and you live within it. If you quit work richer than you begin it. If you save a little from what you make. For the rainy day that's sure to break. Then you're richer far than he who looks Far better off on the company's books. It isn't the money that's paid to you—it's what you do.

With what you get. For the work you do.

The head of a large shop while passing through the packing room observed a boy lounging against a case of goods and whistling cheerily. The chief stopped and looked at him. "How much do you get a week?" he demanded. "Five dollars," came the brief retort. "Then here's a week's money, now clear out." The boy pocketed the money and departed. "How long has he been in our employ?" the chief inquired of the departmental manager. "Never, so far as I can remember," was the unexpected reply. "He has just brought me a note from another firm."

Protect Yourself Against Typhoid

"Every person drinking from a roadside stream or spring or taking raw unfiltered milk is running a chance of getting typhoid," warns Dr. Merrill Champion of the State Department of Public Health.

"Spring and summer are the seasons for motoring and each year we are faced with the danger of typhoid. The disease may be contracted by drinking polluted water, eating raw foods that have been exposed to flies or careless handling.

To play safe all motorists, travellers and campers are urged to use only such water as comes from the city or town supplies. Carry supply water from a nearby brook or well may be used if it is boiled.

Drink only pasteurized or certified milk. Avoid raw food if there is any question of its source or possibility of unclean handling.

The only sure way of dodging the menace of the typhoid carrier is to be vaccinated against typhoid. Everyone who eats away from home runs the risk of coming into contact with the typhoid carrier. The only people who are immune to this disease are those who have already had the disease. All others should be vaccinated. This vaccination consists of three inoculations. This gives one a reasonable protection for a period of two or three years but all persons travelling a great deal who are likely to be exposed frequently should have this inoculation repeated each year."

Unequalled in Appearance and Easy-riding Qualities

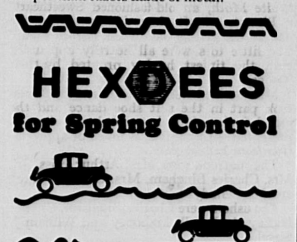

INTERIOR OF ONE OF THE NEW CARS

The Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company have ordered fifty new DeLuxe cars, which will cost about $800,000. They are equipped with every up-to-date device known to the Street Railway industry, including individual air cushions, Spanish leather seats, Pullman rubber and linoleum floors, variable load air brakes, their splendid equipment of DeLuxe cars that are now operating between Lawrence, Andover and Boston feel sure that the people will agree that nowhere else in this country can there be found trolley cars to equal them in appearance or easy-riding qualities.

A new material, "bravolette," is used by a German inventor in the manufacture of safety razors. It looks like ivory, tortoise shell or marble, depending on the manner in which it is manufactured. The advantage of this material lies in the fact that the apparatus cannot rust. There is no need to dry the razor after use, it is sufficient to rinse it. Another advantage is that it is cheaper than razors made of metal.
